

Cancellation policy

The financial obligations in the event of cancellation of our open enrolment training courses are as follows, from the moment of enrolment:

Up to 3 months before the first training date: 100% of the registration fee will be refunded, or, in consultation, the training can be rescheduled to another date or replaced by a colleague (the latter two options must be exercised within one year of the first training date).

Up to 2 months before the first training date: 50% of the registration fee will be refunded, or the training can be rescheduled to another date in consultation, or replaced by a colleague (the latter two options must be exercised within one year of the first training date).

Up to one month before the first training date: no registration fee refund, but possibility to reschedule to another date in consultation, or to have the course taken by a colleague (the latter two options must be exercised within one year of the first training date).

You can only cancel or reschedule a training course in writing by sending an email to: secretariaat@ct-company.nl

If there are insufficient registrations, we reserve the right to reschedule a training course. In that case, we will inform you at least 7 days in advance. If you wish to postpone the training course, there will of course be no costs involved.
